Order of Publication
 Carrie L. Goss vs. Allen N. Leach. Whereas Carrie L. Goss of Albany in the county of Orleans in the State of Vermont has this day filed in the office of the Clerk of the county court, for said county her libel for annulment of marriage against Allen N. Leach, set forth in substance that she was, on the 26th day of November, 1897, married to the said Allen N. Leach and that she and said Leach lived together as husband and wife in the County of Orleans; that the libellant has resided in the county of Orleans for the past year, that said Allen N. Leach, well knowing that he was then and there the lawful husband of one Cora Knapp Leach, of Stewartstown, in the State of New Hampshire and then and there intending to deceive and defraud said petitioner, did falsely represent to said petitioner that he was then and there an unmarried man; that said false representation was induced to marry Allen N. Leach as aforesaid. That the said Cora Knapp Leach is still living in said Stewartstown and is said the lawful wife of said Allen N. Leach and so the petitioner says she was deceived and defrauded by the said Allen N. Leach in said marriage with him.
 Said petitioner further says that she was wholly ignorant that said petitioner, at the time she entered into said marriage contract with him, was the husband of the said Cora Knapp Leach, and praying that said marriage may be annulled in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided.
 And it appearing that the said petitioner is without this State, and that no summons can be served on him.
 It is ordered that the petitioner notify the petitioner of the pendency of said petition, and summon him to appear at the term of the county court to be held at Newport, within and for the county of Orleans, on the 12th day of September, 1911, on the first day thereof, and answer to the said petition, and to publish this order three weeks successively in the Orleans County Monitor, a newspaper published at Barton, in said county, the last publication to be at least six weeks previous to the commencement of said term.
 Dated at Newport, in said county, this 21st day of June, 1911.

WHEN THE PIGS COME.

Proper Treatment of Sow and Litter at Farrowing Time.
 Two weeks before the pigs are expected the sow should be placed in a farrowing pen connected with a dry yard large enough to allow her to exercise. Her towels should be kept loose. She should have dry, sunny shelter, free from drafts. The sow should be petted, so that she will like to have her feeder handle her. Give the sow all the water she wants for the first twenty-four hours after the pigs are born, but no grain.

The head of the Berkshire boar shown herewith approaches the ideal as accepted by breeders. The tendency in recent years has been to produce an extremely pug nosed animal, and, commenting on this, a Berkshire breeder said: "My experience is that a hog with this kind of nose is not as thrifty or as growthy as any of the other pigs in the herd that have reasonably good heads. A good head, as is described in the standard of excellence, is wide, broad between the eyes and ears, with nicely dished face. Now, nicely dished does not mean a pug nose, with the lower jaw longer than the upper, or one that snuffles or snuffles in the least. It is a head that is in balance with the rest of the animal and in proportion in every way."

Take the chill off the water in cold weather. For three or four days after the first twenty-four hours give plenty of water, but feed grain and milk sparingly. Then slowly increase until, when the pigs are three weeks old, the sow is having all the feed she will consume. Give the pigs exercise and sunshine from birth, but do not allow them to get damp nor to be exposed to the wind.

When the sow is given a warm, rich slop or other milk producing feeds just after her pigs are born a strong milk flow is forced. The newborn pigs get too much and have diarrhea, which often kills them.

Watch the sow and pigs and slowly increase her food as fast as the pigs can take more milk. At the end of two weeks after farrowing she should be given all the milk producing feeds she will eat. Pasture, skim milk, tankage shorts, wheat, grain feed and the hay from alfalfa, clover, peas and peanuts are among the best milk producing feeds.

Corn and barley in moderate quantities are good, but must be fed with large quantities of the milk yielding feeds. An excess of either of these grains is certain to bring on thumps, one of the most fatal of the diseases of young pigs. Like all growing animals, the pigs must have hours of exercise every day.

Pigs will begin to nibble at feed when they are about three weeks old. At this age they should be given a little milk in a trough separate from the mother. After they get to drinking the milk freely add a little soaked whole grain—barley, wheat, peas, milo or corn. Do not give more than they will eat up clean at one time, and clean the trough well before each feeding.

Pigs should not be weaned until they are at least eight weeks old, and if the sow is to have a second litter, or if there is time enough in case she is, it is better to let the pigs suckle until they are ten or twelve weeks old.—Professor H. M. Cottrell in Kansas Farmer.

HOUSEHOLD

Keeping Corners of the Kitchen Clean.

There are few subjects along the line of practical housekeeping that are less attractive, but none that so vitally affect the economy and health of the entire household as the kitchen sink. It can be the receptacle of "wifely waste" that never fails to make "woeful want;" it can harbor the germs of every disease, or it can prove the most useful blessing of the household.

Hundreds of housekeepers who can not abide a fly or a flake of dust will be entirely oblivious of the fact that a knife or spoon drawn along the side of their sink would roll up a pile of grease capable of holding for fertile soil the seeming mystery of disease.

A physician once carried a careful examination from garret to cellar in quest of a cause he might blame for the sudden case of typhoid. All in vain, every nook and corner was immaculate.

"Let me see the dish cloth."

It was brought gray and soggy and with his microscope and of no particular power showed to the wondering eyes of the mother ample cause for fear.

There is no safer dish cloth than a partly worn dish towel cut in two and hemmed and one of the two required to go into the family wash once a week and ironed with the other clothes. To see that this is done regularly is as much the duty of every mother as to see that the milk served at her table is sweet.

The scalding of the sink with boiling water and soap powder should be a part of the Saturday cleaning when the brass is polished. Every sink should have two brushes made of dark reeds, tin tops, wooden handle and sold for five cents apiece. Choose one with a wire ring in the top and the other without. The ring-top one hangs up and is used to wash all the tins and on or in the pans will quickly cleanse without any wetting of the hands. In case of a burning on of food take hold of the half cake of soap rub it on the metal, follow with the iron ring dish cloth that should hang over every sink and you can clean the dirtiest pan with ease. The housekeeper with a daily glance can see that the brush with a ring hangs up and the one without stands up in the sink beside the three cornered wire sink strainer.—Exchange.

Ginger Beer.

Twelve quarts of boiling water, 3 tablespoons of cream of tartar, 3 tablespoons of ground ginger, 4 pounds of white sugar, 4 lemons sliced thin, 1 yeast cake. Mix the lemons, ginger, cream tartar and sugar in the boiling water. Let it cool then add 1 yeast cake dissolved in 1 cup lukewarm water. Let stand 24 hours, strain and bottle.—Ex.

Home-Made Soda Water.

Three pints of boiling water poured on 3 pounds of white sugar, let it cool, then add 2 ounces of tartaric acid, the whites of 3 eggs and 2 ounces of any flavoring you may prefer (wintergreen is nice.) Put 2 tablespoons of this in 2-3 of a tumbler of water, add 1 teaspoon of common baking soda and drink while foaming.—Ex.

Household Supplies.

If a housewife would but invest in a few kitchen necessities, such as twine, wrapping paper, bags and tissue paper, she would save $100 worth of worry and fret hunting for these things when they are not to be found. If not necessities, at least they are conveniences. First of all, $1 should be invested in wrapping paper of different thicknesses and sizes. It may be well enough to save the wrapping paper from packages from stores, but as a rule this paper has one or two labels on it, and when smoothed out and used again does not make a neat package.

Often in wrapping up china or cut glass or, if we wish to make an especially dainty package, a wild hunt for tissue paper is begun which generally ends in despoiling some hat box. One ball of light weight white string and one of stout grayish cord cost very little and in the end pay in convenience.

Womanly Wisdom.

Heat your knife before cutting hard soap.

Wet a cloth with a bit of soap on it and clean up the grease spots on your kitchen floor.

Jelly from berries picked wet is almost sure to mold, and doesn't jelly right. Try to pick them dry.

Put a few grains of rice in your salt shakers. They will break the lumps, gather the moisture and make the salt come out freely.

Glue pieces of felt or pieces of old rubbers to the bottom of the chair legs and there will be no scratched floors and less noise.

An emergency glue may be made of rice. Boil a handful of rice in water until it is a thick fine paste. Very good for pasting white paper.

In making cake with fruit in it beef suet and butter half and half is better than all butter. I have known lard and beef suet to give good results.

When a ham or smoked tongue has been boiled, try plunging it in cold water as soon as removed from the fire; this will make the skin come off easily and smoothly.

A handy way to remove pies and cakes from a hot oven is to use a common shingle. Cut away the thick end into the shape of a handle. Bore a hole in it and keep the shingle hanging behind the stove.

A Way Open

Many a Barton Reader Knows It Well.

There is a way open to convince the greatest skeptic. Scores of Barton people have made it possible. The public statement of their experience is proof, the like of which has never been produced before in Barton. Read this case of it given by a citizen:

F. F. Sawyer, Main street, Barton, says "I wish as many suffering men and women as I can reach through this testimonial to know the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was greatly benefited by this remedy, and I also know of several other people who have been cured of bad attacks of kidney complaint by its use. Doan's Kidney Pills completely rid me of pains in my back and other distressing symptoms of disordered kidneys." (Statement given September 4, 1908)

THE CURE LASTED
 Mr. Sawyer was interviewed by our representative on June 5, 1911, and he said: "It gives me pleasure to confirm my former statement regarding Doan's Kidney Pills. They brought lasting benefit in my case and I now have no need of a kidney medicine whatever. You are welcome to continue the use of my name as a reference."
